Mary A. Redmond

Author, Speaker, Entrepreneur

Mary Redmond is a trainer, speaker, author and entrepreneur who has been working in the leasing industry for 28 years. For 21 years she negotiated contracts for some of the largest leasing companies in the world. In 2002 she left corporate America and founded Independent Lease Review, Inc., a client advocate consulting firm.

Her unique, highly specialized skills help companies save from 5% to 15% on equipment lease contracts. Her passion is to train others how to spot potential problems in their leases and to negotiate more equitable contracts.

Mary teaches workshops and presents keynotes, as well as consults and reviews equipment leases. She packaged her exclusive insights and innovative techniques into a comprehensive system called The LeaseSpeak[™] System: Your Guide to Saving Money on Leases. The step-by-step instructions and interactive forms guide users through reviewing and negotiating their leases.

Mary speaks, consults and writes nationally on the subjects of equipment leasing, entrepreneurship and negotiation skills. She is a contributing editor for industry and trade magazines, and is active in professional groups including the National Speakers Association. She holds degrees in psychology and sociology from the University of Missouri, Kansas City. In 2007 the Kansas City Business Journal and Kauffman Foundation honored Mary with the Women Who Mean Business Award.
