

Stacey M. Taylor
Vice President, Indirect & Capital Procurement

Stacey Taylor joined ConAgra Foods in July 2006 as Vice President, Indirect & Capital Procurement. She was responsible for developing and refining ConAgra's indirect procurement team. In June 2009 she became Vice President Non-Commodity Ingredients and is providing oversight to our Fruits, Vegetable, Spices and other non-commodity ingredients. She is accountable to generate significant savings year over year while driving continuous improvement and compliance to all sourcing practices and policies. This includes spend management, procurement leveraging, strategic sourcing, business process and technology development. Stacey is also our Organizational Change Leader for our Procure to Pay implementation of SAP. Her role is to provide overall change management guidance and facilitation of improved processes to ensure a successful transition from our legacy Procurement systems onto SAP as well as ensuring value extraction to the implemented locations and functional departments.

Prior to joining ConAgra Stacey was Director, Procurement for Tyco International Inc. where she led the global sourcing teams in Travel, Temporary Labor, Office Equipment and Office Supplies, as well as being the Corporate Procurement SOx leader for developing auditable policies and procedures for two years. She also spent six years within their Tyco Healthcare division holding various procurement roles culminating as Commodity Manager, Indirect for all of North America.

Stacey received her B.B.A. in management from Dowling College, Oakdale, NY in 1989. In 1997 she received her MBA from Anna Maria College, Paxton, MA.

Stacey was a board of director member for the NEMSDC from 2004-2005 and is currently a board of director for the YWCA-Omaha as well as the GPMSDC.

Stacey and her husband Jack currently reside on Omaha, NE with their two children Jaclyn and Justin.
