Program Description:

Discover how well-known business leaders manage the challenge of embedding sustainability and social responsibilities across the firm. Learn what world class companies are doing to ensure visibility, communicate internal guidelines and expectations, overcome resistance and help the customer figure out what they need with the ultimate goal to ensure both understanding and buy-in. This is your chance to ask thought leaders, in supply chain, what worked and what didn't work.

Judy Baranowski is a director at AlixPartners LLP, a firm which specializes in improving corporate financial and operational performance, executing corporate turnarounds and providing litigation consulting and forensic accounting services when it really matters – in urgent, high-impact situations. Prior to joining AlixPartners, Judy was Chief Procurement Officer at Motorola with a $25B global spend as well as Corporate Vice President for Supply Chain Quality at Motorola. Baranowski has also held executive level positions at AlliedSignal (now Honeywell) and Eaton in addition to operating roles at ITT Automotive, TRW and Ford Motor Company.

Baranowski's seven years of experience in consulting coupled with 27 years of operating experience enables her to bring a practical approach to implementing solutions that drive superior and sustained results.

Baranowski is a member of ISM and currently serves on ISM's Conference Leadership Committee. She is past chair of ISM's Ethical Standards Committee and a past member of ISM's Committee on Sustainability & Social Responsibility. She is also a member of several organizations that support her professional development for AlixPartners.
